

JD.com Global (English Website) officially went online for public beta, marking the company's first major step in its globalization process.

October 1, 2012

JD.com Global (English Website) officially went online for public beta, marking the company's first major step in its globalization process. JD.com completed the acquisition of Chinabank Payments, a third-party payment company.